Flours

We highly recommend you purchase flour from the Australian company, Laucke. Their flour is usually better quality than other mills, however the bread mixes they supply to supermarkets are different formulations than those that are supplied to bakeries and other sellers, and do not work as well. We will tell you where you should be able to source their better products. If the supermarket is your only choice, try them out, however, ignore the recipes on the packet, our recipes are more reliable.

Possible New Suppliers

Our best recommendation will be to get most ingredients from

Hindustan Imports 50 Greens Rd Dandenong South.

They have an easy to use online shopping portal – great to pre-order and then pickup (saves trying to find products in unfamiliar aisles) - delivery cost is $16.50 for a defined metro area or free delivery for orders over $90 in the metro area. They stock loads of quality baking products – (our preferred is Laucke), bread making Flours often in 1kg or 5kg or sometimes only 12.5kg sizes. Yeast in 500gm packs, Laucke Bread improver should be a good choice. Dried fruit, spices of course, inc Dutch Cinnamon (Cassia), Nuts, Herbs, Seeds and lots of fascinating Indian and Sri Lankan groceries. Worth a visit, if just for the education in the cuisine of other cultures.

Timstock

Bulk Supplies of Creamy Custard Mix, Sponge Mix, Chocolate Buttons, Dutch Cocoa, Sweet and Savoury fillings like Spiced Apple and Red Onion and Chilli, Soft Fondant Icing, Doughnut Jam - And flours, but you will have to buy in bulk bags of 12.5kg or 25kg.

Dutch Cocoa Can be purchased from Timstock in 1kg foil packs. The brand is IRCA CACAO IN POLVERE 22/24 ALKALISED COCOA POWDER 1KG (1KG)

Or more expensive one is Oostr Double Dutch 5kg.

Gluten Free Bread –If in Bendigo, go to New Freedom Bakery for fabulous GF bread, cakes and pastries. You can also purchase the Cottage bread mix and yeast, from their online store. www.newfreedombakery.com.au

My Dream Cakes – next to the car yard next to us - Chocolate Buttons, Cake mixes, Cake tins etc. They do sell doughnut jam but in small tubs only and a bit pricey.

Roberts Confectionery - You can call in and purchase direct or use their online store. Flavours and Gel Colours, Chocolate Moulds etc

Other Possibilities

Basic Ingredients are in Qld and have a selection of breadmaking supplies, online store only. All flour comes in 1kg plastic bags, so massive packaging waste and a bit pricey. Watch out for price reductions on selected products or free shipping weekends. We are not particularly happy with their Dark rye mix. We haven't tried all their products, but the bread flour seems fine. They do sell grains and seeds.

Boost Flavours

Most of our dehydrated vegetable flavours can be purchased online from www.spicesaustralia.com an online store providing dried vegetables and spices.

The Aussie Bush Herb and Pumpkin and Sundried Tomato are Oostra brand products and it is unlikely you can source them without buying 3kg at a time.

Bulk food stores

Many places such as The Full Pantry in Croydon, markets etc, stock flours, but I have no idea on quality of the flour in these places. The old saying "oils ain't oils" applies to flour as well.

If you are really, desperate for some of your favourite products, you can obtain supplies from Simply No Knead in Seaford. Not sure about the quality of their flour, haven't used it in decades. The old saying "oils ain't oils" applies to flour as well. But they do sell doughnut jam in small tubs, fondant icing in small tubs, malt, seeds, grains etc.

Don't forget they will take a while to get used to the needs and timing of visits by their new customers. Give them time to get to grips with our requirements. Perhaps ring ahead to check on stock.
